Ann Stops Early

BULLETIN

At approximately 2:10 a.m. Ann Meraw was taken out of the water, sick to her stomach.

Ann Meraw, a slim, dark woman from Vancouver, slipped into the water off Clover Point at 1:10 a.m. today in her first attempt to beat old Juan de Fuca. At press time she was half a mile off shore.

She is the fourth woman to make the attempt.

Her white cap bobbed away into the darkness while a crowd of several hundred watched from the rocks.

FIFTY-FIVE

Her coach, Toronto's noted swim adviser Pat Roach, gives Mrs. Meraw "a fifty-fifty chance" to make the swim which has beaten Bert Thomas four times and every other challenger in history.

She started swimming rapidly, with a six-beat orthodox crawl.

Gus Norman, her navigator, was with her coach and two boatmen in the dinghy which kept close to the swimmer.

Ann swam very strongly the first few minutes on a slack tide to get away from kelp and reach the area of favorable tides. Her stroking was polished and clean.

Her coach said she was wearing a specially insulated suit, but was using no grease.

Her course appeared at the start to be straight for Port Angeles, but no one but her immediate handlers knew exactly her heading.

Water temperature at take-off was 46 degrees and the wind southwest, no more than 10 knots.

Thomas Misses Chance

BY PETER BRUTON
Colonist Staff Reporter

PORT ANGELES — Bert Thomas will try to swim from Ediz hook to Victoria at 6 a.m. today—if the weather goes well.

The weather beat Bert again last night.

He was due to make his start off Ediz hook at 6 p.m. But there were whitecaps inside the hook, right in Port Angeles harbor, and a 20-mile-an-hour wind whipping the coast.

"It's no use," Thomas said, disconsolately. "I missed my chance this morning. The weather was perfect."

At 6:50 p.m. he made his decision final.

"I won't waste myself," he said. "I'll go in the morning, all being well."

Youths Admit Torture Guilt

VANCOUVER (BUP)—Two youths pleaded guilty in Vancouver police court yesterday to committing a torture robbery of another youth to obtain a set of car keys.

Maniac Tipster Gets Steady Job

LONDON (AP) — The voice on the phone said: "Get rid of that man White—he's a homicidal maniac." Norman White, 29, lost the job he started only an hour before.

The same thing had happened four times in three weeks. Each time Norman was fired within two hours of starting a new job, and each time he collected a week's pay.

Tuesday he started another new job. This one—sewing mail bags—will last longer. The voice on the phone, a city court was told Monday, was White himself posing as a police officer. The court gave him eight months in jail for obtaining money by false pretences.

Communist Wheat Deal Furor

Commons Deliberately Misled By C. D. Howe, Drew Charges

'Situation Will Be Unchanged' Meant 'Negotiations Over'

OTTAWA (CP)—Opposition Leader Drew Tuesday night accused Trade Minister Howe of misleading the Commons on the $19,000,000 wheat deal with Red Poland, after the minister said negotiations have been completed.

Mr. Drew, who earlier in the day made an unsuccessful attempt to launch a House debate to block the deal which he believed was still pending, said in an interview he will keep pressing for a full parliamentary airing of the transaction—the biggest with the Reds in post-war years.

He said he firmly believes Mr. Howe early in the day deliberately led the House to believe that the deal was not yet concluded and would not be completed until his estimates were dealt with in the chamber.

The deal involves shipment of some 9,000,000 bushels of Canadian wheat for about $19,000,000, with Poland putting up 15 per cent cash. The remainder is being floated through a bank loan guaranteed by the Canadian government.

OUT OF ORDER

When Mr. Drew attempted to open the emergency debate, Speaker René Beaudoir ruled him out of order, saying his understanding was that the deal was still pending and that it could still fall through.

Mr. Howe interjected: "Perhaps I could relieve the situation by saying that the situation will be unchanged when my estimates of the department of trade and commerce are discussed."

Mr. Drew said in his interview

Due in September

GEORGE DREW

PC Head To Visit Victoria

National Progressive Conservative leader George Drew will visit Victoria and other B.C. cities in mid-September, but is not likely to confer with provincial leaders Deane Flinlayson.

Maj.-Gen. G. R. Pearkes, V.C. MP for Esquimalt-Saanich, said yesterday that Mr. Drew will spend two weeks in B.C. during a tour in which he will confer with federal party officials in all parts of Canada.

"I should be surprised if he met Mr. Flinlayson," Gen. Pearkes said. "We have to recognize that we are in two different camps; one side concerned with federal affairs and the other with purely provincial matters."

Mr. Beaudoir said, in view of this, the matter could more properly be discussed when trade department estimates were debated. At that point in the morning procedural tangle, which occupied 45 minutes, Mr. Howe interjected:

"Perhaps I could relieve the situation by saying that the situation will be unchanged when my estimates of the department of trade and commerce are discussed."

The opposition leader maintained that if gifts or quasi-gifts were to be made to foreign countries they should be made to friendly ones, and not to Communist states like Poland.

"Astonished"

Mr. Drew said earlier, outside the House, that he was "astonished" by the Winnipeg report.

Tuesday morning he made an unsuccessful move to launch an emergency debate on the deal in the administration section of the U-shaped structure, seizing associate warden Ted Bezzerides and eight others.

One of the two hostages released was badly beaten and left unconscious by the revolting gang.

ALL ABOARD With G. E. Mortimore

FISHING can be hazardous. There is a risk of being clunked on the nose by a fishing crong as he extends his arms to show the size of the one that got away.

And there is also the danger of being caught in the middle when rival fishermen start demonstrating their gear.

Indoor fishing, in fact, is the most dangerous kind.

Anglers are a stubborn group. They love to argue. They build elaborate theories around one fish they caught in 1953. And they will bring out fishing tackle and cast hook-laden plug the length of the room to prove what they say.

When indoor fishermen get started on a duel, they have no respect for furniture or people.

"No sir, I don't care what you say. You can't beat a Samoan Gurgler on cuttlyhunk line. And with a reel like I have here, you can snake it out 50 feet with a flick of the wrist."

"A Samoan Gurgler? Don't flail the water with a thing like that, man. Give the fish credit for some intelligence. A fish sees a pile of painted scrap iron coming at him, he'll go under a log and bulk, because you've insulted his powers of observation."

"You're crazy. Here, let me show you . . ."

"No, let ME show YOU. Now what you want to start with is something within reason, like a Philipine Phinger. And that wench you call a casting reel—well, it may be all right for hauling up the anchor on a tug boat, but for fishing—pehah!"

"The heck you say. Let ME show YOU how mine works. Just move the wrist slightly, and—going! Look at that plug sail. How was that for a split-second cast?"

"Old Tom doesn't seem to think much of it, over there by the door. You've caught him by the ear."

"Hmm. You see the advantage of this reel? When you stop winding in, it lets out slowly, by itself. Then you start winding again, when you're ready."

"Old Tom is trying to make a run for it. Ooops! Didn't I tell you that gadget on the reel was no good? He's broken your line and got clean away, with your plug still in him."

Garden Notes

Tomatoes Need Daily Pruning

BY M. V. CHESNUT, FBHS Tomatoes will need new ties to their stakes almost every week now, or the tops of the plants will be whipped around in the wind and the growing point damaged. Use a soft material for the ties, never thin grocer's twine which would cut into the stem, nor harsh scratchy twine which would act like sandpaper on the delicate bark of the tomato stems.

As I think I told you before, I like old typewriter ribbons for this job. Tie the length of ribbon securely to the stake first, using a double knot, then loosely around the tomato stem, leaving enough room for the stem to swell without becoming strangled.

FOUR'S ENOUGH

The non-staking or self-grafting varieties, such as Early Bush Beefsteak, need a little work on them, too. These plants tend to send up a regular forest of shoots from down near ground level, and they become overcrowded with leafy growth which cuts down the subsequent crop. I find that it pays to limit each plant to about four main branches, taking out all the others. Bush tomatoes should be mulched heavily with straw, not only to steady the moisture supply to the roots, but to keep the fruit up off the ground and prevent it from rotting.

While staking is unnecessary for the bush-type tomatoes, if you are planning to raise a few super-de-luxe fruits for exhibition, this is a good idea to provide a low, slanting stake for those particular branches.

GOVERNOR

I have found that it pays to make one exception in the ground removal of tomato side shoots. Where one of these emerges immediately above a bunch of blossoms, I let it grow until it has made a few leaves, then I pinch off its tip. This acts as a governor, steadyng the supply of sap to the swelling fruit.

Vancouver Hearing Opens

Tabloid Editor Asked to Cite Details of Police Corruption

VANCOUVER (CP)—The editor of Flash, a weekly Toronto publication, will be asked to come to Vancouver and testify before a Royal Commission inquiry into the duration of one hearing.

CAN'T SUBPOENA HIM

Mr. Tupper said he would write the editor, asking he attend, but pointed out that he could not subpoena him as "he is out of our jurisdiction."

A crowd which jammed the quasi-judicial courtroom of Vancouver's courthouse sat silently Tuesday as Reginald H. Tupper, royal commissioner, said he would accede to a request that "Howard Sommerville, alias Peter Dumsin," be called to give evidence.

The first session of the sixth major investigation into Vancouver's police force lasted exactly one hour. Mr. Tupper outlined his duties and the methods he planned to employ to "reach the truth."

The hearing was adjourned to July 31.

Nudists Invite Reporters

NORTH—VANCOUVER (CP)—More than 150 nudists representing affiliated clubs throughout Canada will be guests of the North Vancouver Van Tan Club at the annual convention of the Canadian Sunbathing Association, July 9-10.

Officials of the Van Tan Club, oldest nudist organization in Canada, said Monday they would have sentries posted around the club's grounds to warn visiting sunbathers from "straying too close to civilization, where residents might see and complain."

Club grounds are situated on a cliff-like promontory high above the city and includes such luxuries as a snack bar and swimming pool.

Delegates are expected to come mainly from Alberta, Saskatchewan and nearby U. S. states, officials said here.

Also invited are radio and newspaper reporters but press photographers have been banned.

During the convention, the royal family of nudism will be crowned, new officers elected and policy formulated.

SHRINKS WHEN HOT

Radioactive polonium, a by-product of atomic research, is the first metal to shrink instead of expand when heated.

The demand for Mr. Sommerville's presence came from T. G. Morris, counsel for Walter H. Mulligan, sidekick as police chief for the duration of one hearing.

CAN'T SUBPOENA HIM

Mr. Tupper said he would write the editor, asking he attend, but pointed out that he could not subpoena him as "he is out of our jurisdiction."

As the hearing opened, it was learned that Det. Sgt. Leonard Cuthbert who shot himself through the chest in the police station two weeks ago, had been subpoenaed to give evidence.

His counsel, without referring to the subpoena, said he would have his client "examined by a competent alienist in view of his physical and mental state."

Already subpoenaed is Ray Munro, west coast representative for Flash, whose articles in the publication, touched off the inquiry.

Mr. Mulligan, placed on leave of absence, has opened suit for libel against Mr. Munro and Flash.

EXPLAINS TASK

Mr. Tupper explaining that "this is not a court," said he would inquire into allegations of corruption.

Holiday Traffic Kills 393, Heaviest Toll Ever Recorded

CHICAGO (AP)—A record number of traffic deaths for a three-day period of July period in 1952.

In the 78-hour period, 239 persons drowned and 111 were killed in other accidents. The over-all total of 773 was a record for three days and compared with a high of 793 for a four-day fourth of July weekend in 1950. The total toll in that year was an all-time high of 491.

Every state and the District of Columbia reported at least one accidental death. This year's toll in all types of accident was far ahead of last year.

An Established Success

THE Summer School for teachers, opening today under provincial auspices with an enrollment of 2,100 men and women, in recent years has risen to a fresh peak of attendance and usefulness. The demand for teachers throughout Canada generally and in steadily expanding degree in British Columbia accounts in part but not for all of that. The desire of those within the profession to add to their knowledge and to reach a higher standard remains as the chief cause of the very active enrollment in the Summer School, which Victoria has seen grow under capable management from relatively small beginnings into a firmly established success.

The fact that some 60 courses are available at the present term of the school indicates the degree to which the annual summer session has widened its opportunities to professional craftsmen who are on their way up. Most of those enrolled make teaching their livelihood. Large numbers are young people at the beginning of their careers in their chosen calling. All are objective, in that one reads for a degree; another adds training in hitherto uncovered branches of the calling; and probably all entrants have a definite purpose in mind. The result is beginning to show in the British Columbia school system, with more and better qualified teachers on the rolls of the public school system.

Victoria has made an ideal setting for the Summer School, with a wealth of opportunity in cultural assets apart from the direct program in the curriculum. Indeed the extra-curricular activities of the school have come to be looked upon as a full part of the valuable nature of the session. This extends immediately to music and art, and to a wide range of other activities from astronomy to botany. It is a contributing factor, also, that Victoria as the seat of provincial government can call upon the assistance of every government department that may be related to the courses. That has made for a flexibility and range of lecturers and others with special knowledge that could not easily be duplicated outside of the capital.

One of the pleasing dividends of the Summer School to Victoria is the large number of young British Columbians it brings to this city, with the serious purpose of improving their opportunities in life but with plenty of time left between classes to enjoy the friendly atmosphere of a community of "homes and flowers." It is a tribute to the directors of the Summer School and to students alike that year by year these visitors become only the more welcome.

Benefits at Wrong End

THERE is an aspect of the guaranteed annual wage theory about which little if anything has been said but which appears to be a fundamentally weak point in the whole idea. This has to do with the practicalities of financing such a plan by any industry. For a manufacturing organization to establish a guaranteed annual wage on a sound financial basis (if there can be any sound financial basis for such a scheme in the changing fortunes of industry) it would be necessary to maintain a large fund to take care of payments during an abnormal or prolonged period of lay-offs. It is here that a major problem presents itself; and one for which no workable solution seems to have been offered.

Advocates of the guaranteed annual wage are wont to assert that liability of employers for benefit payments would be measured by the size of the fund. There is in this an implied assurance that the total of wages for enforced idleness would always be kept within reason and within the resources of the employer. This view amounts to an admission that there would have to be a limit to the time an employer should be expected to pay wages for nothing. In that event the employees who would be hurt most would be the very ones whom the scheme is supposed to benefit most.

In a period of lay-offs the first to become beneficiaries, under trade union seniority concepts, would be those with the shortest terms of service. After the one-year, two-year and three-year lengths have been drawn benefits for any length of time, the chances are that the guaranteed wage reserve fund would be empty. Management would then be in the unhappy position of telling senior employees about to be laid off that there was nothing left for them. In short, situations could arise in which the "guarantee" would fail to serve the interests of any except the most junior members of the unions involved.

There are numerous objections in principle to the idea of establishing a guaranteed annual wage, the chief being that it would be inequitable unless accompanied by guaranteed annual production and sales—an economic state patently unattainable. Here is a practical side which should knock the whole idea on the head.

New Hand at the Helm

CHANGES in the naval command at Esquimalt are traditional and part of the proved policy of senior RCN officer rotation but each such occasion brings its own need of particular interest. The one being initiated today at Admiral's House is no exception. This community as well as the navy which is of its warp and woof is saying goodbye to one highly esteemed flag officer and bidding a hearty welcome to another. Rear-Admiral J. C. Hibbard, for whom farewell ceremonies in recent weeks have been unusually marked, makes way for Rear-Admiral H. F. Pullen. Another page in local naval history is being turned.

This area has been fortunate in the caliber and personal qualities of the flag officers of the postwar years. Each has brought his own distinctive personality to the Esquimalt station, one of the two top-level operational commands of the RCN. Of necessity each era has its difference as individual bent comes into play, but always in the last decade it seems the right man has been found for the job.

The new FOPC, like others of the postwar crop of high-ranking RCN officers, was a wartime destroyer captain, the breed traditionally associated with fine professional attainment. He is remembered here also as captain of the cruiser Ontario a few years back, this being one of the important appointments which fell to his lot as he proceeded upwards in steady progression. His all-round naval experience reflects the variety and versatility that has come to be expected of all who proudly fly a two-ball flag at Esquimalt.

As he goes into retirement caused unfortunately by ill-health Rear-Admiral Hibbard will carry with him the good wishes of this community, to which he has contributed much during his years at Admiral's House. For his part Rear-Admiral Pullen is assured of the same civilian good will and co-operation that has marked his predecessor's term and Victorians look forward with pleasure and interest to having him in their midst at the helm of naval affairs in this area.

Well, Quebec came into the Dominion as an equal partner in 1867 and if in 1955 that's the way Quebec keeps looking at things the case for national unity isn't going very well.

Then too, pursues the magazine, there's the fact that in the French language there's no such word as "dominion," and that's a stumper, apparently.

I suppose one daren't mention that the English language has adopted many a French word, intact and holi-holus, and made it its own; and without any thought of losing caste. Or suggest that it wouldn't really be much trouble for French-speaking people to take equal possession of the word dominion.

What with dominion being, as it is alleged, misleading, and confederation not being much better—although the national birthday celebrates a confederation all right—maybe we should hunt for another title. We are sporadically hunting for a national flag that will please everybody so another exercise in diplomacy shouldn't hurt too much.

Let's see. We could call the day by its date, July 1, then sensitive folk might not get upset. There's a nice precedent with May 24, too.

But then there's a movement afoot to switch all holidays to Mondays, and if it swallows up Dominion Day also where will that leave the situation?

Intelligence experts believe any such theory is a pipe dream.

Russia's current sweet talk, they believe, represents a new, more imaginative manoeuvre to block what the Soviets fear most—German rearmament.

There is no solid evidence whatever, they say, that the Russians are hurt because their industrial machine and farm output has started to collapse.

On the contrary, they feel there is good reason for believing that Russia has successfully expanded production in these fields in the past two years and that output will improve from now on with less money and effort.

Further, Russia obviously has succeeded in turning out new jet fighters, jet bombers and impressive amounts of new ground weapons in recent months.

With this evidence before them, these intelligence experts are now trying to curb the more enthusiastic and optimistic U.S. government officials, who believe the Russians in some way may have got religion and will behave like good boys from now on.

Interpreting the News

Wary of Overoptimism

By JOHN SCALI

Associated Press Staff Writer

SOME top-rank American intelligence experts are aghast at the optimism in some Washington quarters over prospects for some kind of a deal with Russia ending the cold war.

These officials, who have been carefully following Soviet developments for years, believe it's dangerous nonsense to expect the Russians to accept the kind of terms that are necessary to ease East-West tensions.

In their views, neither the Geneva summit conference this month or later Big Four talks at a lower level will succeed in removing the threat of war from the international horizon.

What particularly baffles these observers is the current outpouring of stories picturing Russia as so weak internally that it has no alternative but to make sweeping concessions to the West in the near future.

This theory, now being discussed seriously by responsible officials, holds that Russia's agricultural and industrial production has fallen so far behind that the Kremlin wants a two or three-year truce in order to catch up with the West.

Thinking Aloud Magnificent Buildings

"of shoes—and ships—and seal ing wax—or cabbages and kings."
By TOM TAYLOR

Dominion Day being over, Maclean's magazine has been taking second thought about the title of the day. It suggests a change to "Confederation Day."

All because of that frightful word "Dominion," of course. How it bothers the adolescents.

It's a lovely situation. Official Ottawa has shut this word out of its lexicon, so far as it can—at least. Now again someone makes a slip and out comes the forbidden word, and Canadian laws are scattered with the term—naturally.

But it's a tip-toe word now, is Dominion.

Maclean's attempts to be persuasive about the national birthday title. It says that historically Dominion Day hasn't the impact that "Bastille Day" has to a Frenchman or "Independence Day" to an American. True it hasn't. If you're thinking of shot-guns and bullets although there should be room in history for peaceful evolution.

And what's Canada's birthday got to do with the Bastille or the Boston tea party, anyway? *

The Toronto magazine has been looking up the dictionary and it is perturbed. For instance, it finds that one meaning of the word dominion is "estate or domain of a feudal lord."

This is dreadful, for it means you see that our neighbors across the line, says Maclean's, "are skeptical of Canadian nationalism." That's too bad, although I doubt we should lose any sleep over it; presumably official Washington knows the precise score.

It's a bit tricky, though, allowing the dictionary to hemmen you. You can find there all kinds of funny nuances. For instance, if you look hard enough you'll discover that confederation, the term which Maclean's would adopt as a title for July 1, is also a confederacy, and a confederacy in one sense is an unlawful combine.

That's not so good, is it? Confederation is thus just as ambiguous as the magazine says the term Dominion is.

But the real bother, as you might guess, is with Quebec, and Maclean's says the French-Canadians don't like the word dominion. In fact the magazine goes so far as to affirm that the use of "Dominion Day" is a standing insult to French-Canadians. This because of past history.

Well, Quebec came into the Dominion as an equal partner in 1867 and if in 1955 that's the way Quebec keeps looking at things the case for national unity isn't going very well.

Then too, pursues the magazine, there's the fact that in the French language there's no such word as "dominion," and that's a stumper, apparently.

I suppose one daren't mention that the English language has adopted many a French word, intact and holi-holus, and made it its own; and without any thought of losing caste.

Alberta's Auditorium Plans

(From "Within Our Borders")

THE Provincial Auditoriums at Calgary and Edmonton will provide the people of Alberta with modern, spacious facilities for cultural and social purposes.

The Provincial Auditorium at Calgary is located on a 26-acre site on the grounds of the Provincial Institute of Technology and Art and is situated to provide a mountain view of the west. The Edmonton auditorium is located on a 13-acre site on the hillside of Alberta campus.

Plans have been made to landscape the auditorium grounds in an attractive manner and to provide sidewalks and paved parking lots. As many as 850 cars will be able to park near the Edmonton auditorium while Calgary parking facilities will handle more than 1,000 vehicles. Each auditorium will seat 2,700.

Viewed from the front, the auditoriums will present a striking appearance. Above the marquee over the front entrance will tower the curved glass front of the auditoriums.

The main lobby is almost 160 feet wide and provides a large open area through which people can move to the front seats and upper lobbies.

The auditorium proper is a fan-shaped hall 132 feet deep and varying in width from 80 to 160 feet.

Average height from orchestra floor to acoustic ceiling is 50 feet.

The front stalls will seat 1,300 people in comfortable upholstered auditorium chairs. Special provisions allow handicapped people to move in wheelchairs directly from the outside to special places in the orchestra, using ramps instead of stairs to move between levels.

The grand circle and the balcony are accessible from the upper lobby and the balcony promenade, and will seat about 760 and 640 people respectively. The chairs are arranged on risers, giving excellent sight-lines and hearing conditions.

The orchestra pit is partly located under the stage apron. On downward stepped risers approximately 30 musicians can be seated, with the conductor leading from a rostrum at an intermediate level. To the front of the conductor's podium, but lower and not visible to the audience, is the position of the chief lighting engineer.

A large rehearsal stage with broadcasting control rooms and seating provisions for over 100 people has been provided, as well as four practice rooms for soloist musicians, and

Record of Life

(From the Peterborough Examiner)

WE met a pleasant lady recently who told us that she never read newspapers. They depressed her. They harped on crime, international quarrels and disaster of every kind.

She thought they should have a keener sense of responsibility, and try to do good in the world.

The bad news often gets prominence, simply because it is extraordinary. It will be a bad day for the world when newspapers have to walk off. The golfer called to him: "Hi! Macpherson, what's the matter?" "What's the matter?" repeated Macpherson. "D'you expect me to caddy for a man who whistles on the Sabbath?"

It's too bad the old-time horsehair sofa went out of fashion. Properly placed, it could have done a lot to discourage the kids from spending too much time sitting in front of the television set.

There is a certain Scottish golf course where Sunday play is allowed. One Sunday morning an English player hired a caddie and stood waiting with him for his opponent to arrive. The lovely morning caused the golfer to whistle cheerfully, but no sooner had he started than the caddie threw down the clubs and walked off. The golfer called to him:

"Hi! Macpherson, what's the matter?"

"What's the matter?" repeated Macpherson. "D'you expect me to caddy for a man who whistles on the Sabbath?"

It would be interesting to be around a few centuries from now when some archeologist, going through the rubble of our civilization, comes upon the 1955 imprints of one Davy Crockett.

General Gruenher, in testifying that the Russians have over-extended themselves, says, "They have discovered that there is only so much blood in the turnip." However, that's no mean accomplishment in itself—discovering any at all.

Across Canada there are several varieties, none disease-carrying to any serious degree. The only consolation we have is in the fact that north of the Arctic circle there dwell species of mosquitoes so countless in numbers and so vicious in character that they make our temperate mosquitoes mere debutantes.

The Packsack

By GREGORY CLARK

ONLY the female mosquito sings. The male mosquito is a poor braggart, voiceless creature like the men Mayor Charlotte Whitton of Ottawa promises the ladies hundred years hence.

It is believed that the female mosquito has to have one feed of animal blood before her eggs will mature. Man is not the only animal mosquito will attack. Anything from a tiny naked new-hatched chickadee up to a maggot is suitable to the needs of the expectant lady mosquito. But man is the only victim that comes straight at you, without finesse, and lands solidly on the first skin surface it sees and promptly digs in. Its music is loud and clear.

But a little later in the summer, you will encounter another species. You might suppose it was simply the same type of mosquito you had met earlier, only it had grown a little peaked, and a little more cautious. It is, however, a different species. It is smaller. Its white is noticeably higher and fainter. And it is infinitely more sneaky than the earlier insect. It is often the one you notice as soon as you turn the lights out in your summer cottage and lay your head on the pillow. A very faint zing passes your ear, then immediately fades. You tense, awaiting the sting to give away its location so you can swat it. But no sting comes. Then after a moment, another ghostly little white swings close to your ear, immediately vanishes. After a while, when you have given up the vigil, it whispers in and stings, a nasty itchy little one, at that.

Across Canada there are several varieties, none disease-carrying to any serious degree. The only consolation we have is in the fact that north of the Arctic circle there dwell species of mosquitoes so countless in numbers and so vicious in character that they make our temperate mosquitoes mere debutantes.

Letters to the Editor

A Weak Case

From an authentic source I read "It is a self-evident truth that in the practice of certain classes of court procedure, when your case is weak—abuse the other party."

This would appear to be so in the case of Mr. G. K. Sammon when he calls those who are opposed to fluoridation of our water system "fools, radishists, cultists, pseudo-scientists, quacks and cranks who have made it their life's hobby to anti-fluoride and anti-that."

How ridiculous! That is the kind of abuse we hear from all those who have swallowed the fluoridation propaganda hook-line and sinker. Because most of the public have an aversion to being hooked, they want the other side of the case presented, for it offers proof by doctors and dentists that fluoridation would be positively injurious to the community. The "ants" have as much right to be heard as the opposition of any parliament.

While Mr. Sammon and his colleagues are so anxious to broadcast about cities which have adopted fluoridation, they never—even suggest of course that many have rejected it or dropped it after an experiment. The Fort Worth Digest reports that nearly 500 communities which once voted to use this chemical no longer suffer its use in their water supply. This is just one facet of the other side of the story.

T. F. PICKELL,

Public Will

In your report on "Public To Be Taught About Fluoridation"

been headed "Public To Be Talked Into Fluoridation"—School Trustee—Richard Reeve is quoted as saying about chlorination: "The people voted against it, and we put it in."

This happened shortly before I came to Victoria, so I am wondering if Mr. Reeve, or one of your correspondents, is prepared to justify this seemingly dictatorial overriding of the public's will. How was it done? Having seen one city's good soft water supply spoiled by chlorination, I feel rather strongly on this subject.

ERIC MORRISON,

Training a Pup

I read a letter on the treatment and training of dogs in the Colonist some time ago. Years ago I had a much loved liver and white spaniel given to me when a tiny puppy. I named her Fly.

Puppy-like, she thought boots and shoes, etc., were toys to be played with and worried. This had to be stopped, so I tied a big old shoe of my husband's round her neck. Fly did not fuss or try to get it off, but endured patiently all day. When I took it off she was very excited and happy, and she never worried boot or shoe again.

She was very intelligent and learned to keep to heel, sit up and beg, and to jump about five feet over a stick and to walk on her hind legs, and to retrieve.

It was a great grief to me when I lost my friend and companion. I have never had another dog.

Inefficient

Although it appears that the use of fluoridated water by children does lead to an overall reduction in tooth decay, surely it should not be necessary to treat the water supplies of various cities, when only an infinitesimal percentage of such water is drunk by the right children in the proper proportion.

Instead could not tablets be provided containing the correct amount of fluorides, which might be given periodically to provide the amount considered right?

To treat all water certainly seems an inefficient method in this case and might be compared with adding Epsom salts to the whole water supply, because some persons require such doses.

Growing in Mind

Writing of the aid given by the Bible and Shakespeare to the followers of quiz contests, Mr. Tom Taylor refers to "my readers who think Christianity is a fraud and a delusion and would like me to proselytize atheism"

In the dictionary "atheism" is defined as "the disbelief in the existence of God, or in God as an unbeliever," and "Christian" as "a believer in Christ."

There is no valid reason to prevent an atheist from upholding what many who call themselves Christians maintain to be the basis of Christianity, namely, the Golden Rule.

To believe in a person is very different from believing in his words. Various opinions are held about living "teachers" even by those who know them personally. It is obviously much more difficult to make accurate estimates of the characters of those of past ages. The efficacy or otherwise of their teachings can be tested by practice

Mrs. Lake and Messrs. Hannesson and Hills while considering capital punishment do not appear to have thought it necessary to take note of the fact that murderers, and the same is true for dope addicts and peddlers, are created by the society in which they develop. As society becomes increasingly ethical it changes the environment in which children are reared. Hence, the more the grown-ups strive to grow in mind the sooner will the majority come to see how unintelligent it is to take life in enmity or punishment.

Mass Medication

Mr. Frank Partridge's remarks on poisons being used to help some conditions is very true but in tying that in with fluoridation he skips neatly over the most important point. Those poisons are not added to the public water supply so that everyone is compelled to use them regardless of need.

Heaven help us if one day we are compelled to take "minute doses" of a arsenic, nitroglycerine, strichnine and iodine with our water because they, like fluorine, appear to help the diseased condition of a few.

The oft-repeated song "Leave it to those who are qualified" is a red herring across the path of reason. It sidesteps the indisputable fact that no one, regardless of training, honors, or number of degrees after his name, has the moral right to compel anyone to take any medication whatsoever.

Film Series Starts

Exciting color films about spinning for steelhead are given a final check by Cye Birley, left, and Vernon Ridgway before a show at Cameron Memorial Bowl in Beacon Hill park at 9:30 p.m. tomorrow, first of eight weekly shows scheduled by the Victoria and District Film Council and Victoria and Island Life Underwriters' Association. Mr. Birley is film council president and Mr. Ridgway president of the underwriters. Their program includes films on skiing and Javanese dancing, and live dances by Adeline Duncan's Scottish group.

Boat Vanishes After Explosion

Crews of a fishing vessel apparently escaped injury after an explosion and fire yesterday half a mile off the southern tip of Pedder Bay, near Rocky point.

With flame and smoke plainly visible, the craft was seen proceeding along the coast at a fair rate of speed into Victoria harbor, but fishboat or crew could not be found later.

Workmen at Rocky point said they saw the fishboat "explode," and added that a "spectacular fire" followed. But the vessel disappeared around a point, "thick smoke billowing out all over her."

RCMP saw the vessel off Metchosin and Wei's Beach and said it was "headed at a fair clip straight into Victoria."

At Fishermen's wharf, a waterfront worker said he thought he had seen a fishboat towed in by a similar vessel.

The lug Island Comet, the RCN auxiliary vessel Glendon, a freighter and a quarantine boat from William head and other craft searched the coastline without success and police could not find any trace of a damaged fishing vessel in the inner harbor.

RCMP said the search was abandoned last night because "she must be all right."

Premier's Answer:

Accountants Praise Province's System

Praise of B.C.'s accounting by the Canadian Institute of Chartered Accountants was produced yesterday by Premier W. A. C. Bennett as an answer to charges of government book-juggling.

He repeated his invitation for editorial writers who have been criticizing government's debt charges which were $9,291,990 in the 1952-53 budget and $5,951,000 in the 1955-56 budget.

He accused some of B.C.'s "great newspapers" of "trying to throw sand in the gears." He said they said nothing when the previous government "pyramided the debt," failed to file a single financial statement on the PGE, and had "hundreds of orders in council in a secret confidential file."

"We're now trying to reduce the debt and give B.C. good government and they—criticise us," he said.

It also expressed appreciation of B.C.'s system of financial statements showing complete details of revenue and expenditure of all government boards, commissions and enterprises.

"It is extremely gratifying," the statement said, "to note that British Columbia has now taken positive action towards implementing the recommendations of the conferences. The minister of finance for B.C. (then Einar Gunderson) is to be commended for this progressive step in the presentation of the public accounts."

Queen Saves Murderess From Gallows

LONDON (AP)—The Queen Tuesday reprieved one of two murderesses awaiting hanging in Britain.

The commutation—automatic on the recommendation of the home secretary—reduced to life imprisonment the death sentence imposed on Mrs. Sarah Lloyd for beating her neighbor to death with a shovel.

In British jails, a "life" sentence normally runs 12 years.

The Courtroom ParadeKiss Thief Gets Month's Sentence

A youth who slapped a woman taxi dispatcher after attempting to kiss her was sentenced yesterday to one month.

Magistrate Henry Hall told Agit Singh, 18, of 580 John street, that the act was reprehensible.

He told the youth a "moderate" sentence, in view of his age, should be sufficient to make him "realize his impropriety."

The youth had pleaded guilty to assault upon Eva Lingsat, 488 Swinford, about midnight June 11. Her face was slapped and her right eye bruised when she resisted his attempted kiss.

Michael E. Lougheed, 214 Benson, who struck and seriously injured a pedestrian last November, yesterday was convicted of careless driving.

He was fined $75 and restricted to business driving for three months.

Lougheed was driving east on Yates, about 25 miles an hour, November 22, when he struck John C. Pettigrew, 1171 Rockland.

The pedestrian, still a Royal Jubilee hospital patient, was carried into court by police. He had suffered hip and leg fractures and other injuries.

He said he could remember nothing of the accident.

John F. Stone, 271 Larkdowne, said he saw Pettigrew walk at an angle into the car and that the pedestrian was not in a cross-walk.

Mr. Lougheed said he looked left, right and straight ahead at the intersection. Then the man appeared six to eight feet in front of the car.

Magistrate Hall said it appeared from photographs that the accused was driving close to the centre line when the accident occurred.

Leslie D. Foxgord, 1145 Queens, pleaded not guilty yesterday to operating a junkyard, without city permission, on two lots at 1144 Queens.

He was remanded a week for trial. Also adjourned was a charge of operating a vehicle without licence plates.

Ronald E. Preece, 18, R.C.N., was fined a total of $50 for driving a motorcycle without

Uranium Rush Developing In Northland

FORT ST. JOHN, B.C. (CP)—A new uranium rush was reported today to be developing along the Alaska Highway, near the Coal river crossing, some 540 miles north of Dawson Creek.

Prospecting parties are outfitting north and south, at Lower Post and Fort Nelson, following discovery of what is described as "a major body of radioactive ore" by two members of the American party who staked the Nation Lakes uranium field in March and April.

One of the discoverers is Arthur Bellis, veteran B.C. air-prospector who made news in May by parachuting into the American's camp on Tchentlo lake north of the Nation river. He made the find with John Stoneburg, former Washington, D.C., and Detroit editor, who made the original Tchentlo find.

Initial samples submitted by the Americans from the Tchentlo strike have been assayed by Eldridge & Co. of Vancouver at 31.56 per cent uranium oxide, a value at current prices of more than $4,800 per ton.

feet above normal high level and make one long lake out of Buttle and Upper Campbell.

CONDITIONS SET

Water controller A. F. Page has announced conditions of the water licence issued to the power commission for the project. Objections raised by conservationists were thrown out by the controller two weeks ago.

The commission must remove all standing timber around Buttle lake within Strathcona park below an elevation of 730 feet. (The elevation set in a former licence for damming Buttle was 755 feet.) Stumps must be cut off close to the ground and merchantable timber must be sold.

All debris resulting from the logging must be removed, including vegetable matter and waste, below the 730-foot level.

Campsites and boat launching sites must be provided as recommended by the parks department and a public access road constructed to Buttle lake at or near the outlet.

The commission must also assist in restocking Buttle with game fish in co-operation with the game branch of the government.

Labor Congresses Close Ranks Against Red-Dominated Unions

OTTAWA (CP)—A ban on the backdoor re-entry of outcast Red-dominated unions has been agreed upon by leaders of the Trades and Labor Congress and the Canadian Congress of Labor.

After that, the new 1,000,000-member Canadian Labor Congress will have provision for dealing with expelled unions, which will be eligible for readmission only when they show the original causes for expulsion have been wiped out.

Leftist unions with some 60,000 Canadian members—the great majority of whom are not leftists—will be removed from the joint ban. They were tossed out of the congresses at various times during the last six years in a housecleaning of Reds.

Now, congress informants say, their leaders are anxious to bring these unions back into the central labor stream as a protection against co-ordinated organizing drives on their memberships by congress-affiliated unions.

THE REMARKABLE MR. SNEAD. It seems extraordinary that a golfer of such precise accuracy and such tremendous length as Sam Snead should find it so difficult to sink even a small proportion of the shortish putts he leaves himself in the course of a round.

Laurie Carroll, the Victoria club assistant, who was one of the two Vancouver Islanders asked to take part in last week's B.C. Invitational, said that Mr. Snead plays five successive holes in one of his rounds at Shaughnessy.

In each case Sam was dead on the stick with his approach and left himself never any longer than eight feet to secure a birdie figure.

Yet Laurie assures me that Sam not only missed all five putts but was at least twice nearly a foot off the line to the hole.

Maybe it is just as well for the sake of golf's records that there is a chink in the great man's armor.

I suppose one could nominate at least ten per cent of the members of the average golf course who could handle those little putts—not the long ones, mind you—better than Snead.

THIS EASES SEARCH FOR BALLS. During a recent visit to Seattle I was deeply impressed with a convenience provided by the Seattle Golf Club in numbering prominent trees along the many tree-lined fairways of the course.

Numbers in road sign yellow have been painted on trees, each about 15-20 yards apart. The numbers are placed so that they are readily seen from the direction where the shots are played.

When a ball goes into the rough or bush all the player has to do is to note the tree number and he has a positive direction.

I am told that the numbering has not only made ball finding much easier, but has also resulted in a speeding up of play.

There are holes at Colwood where numbering of trees would be helpful, while the fence posts abutting the road on the Victoria club could receive similar treatment. At the moment every fourth post is painted white, with the result that it is easy to confuse one from another. Numbers make for positive plotting.

COLWOOD HOLDS NARROW LEAD. In the annual match between Royal Colwood and the Rainier Club of Seattle, the first leg at Colwood on Sunday finished in favor of the home team by 85 points to 68. Thirty-eight players a side took part.

The return game at Seattle will be played next month. Winners on aggregate hold the Thomson trophy.

SENIORS WANT ELECTRIC CARS. Although the old boys are probably more entitled to them than anyone else, one notes with some alarm that many of the competitors in this year's seniors tournament at Victoria Golf Club are wanting to use electric buggies.

Phil Taylor, Victoria pro, has been inundated with requests, but he has servicing facilities for only two. One entrant is threatening to bring his own buggy all the way from Portland, I cannot trace a parallel.

The latest hole-in-one performer is Alec McCabe. On Sunday he holed his tee shot at the second hole. He was playing with club champion Jim Barrie, former champion Einar Brynjolfson and Jack Galbraith.

To make it even more remarkable, earlier in the day I saw McCabe's tee shot to the thirteenth green; the ball missed the hole by not more than two inches and finished less than a foot behind the hole.

MARLENE'S BID FOR THIRD TITLE. Marlene Stewart, the only Canadian to have won the Canadian Women's Open championship since the war, is expected to be on hand next month to defend her title at Royal Colwood.

Marlene won in 1951 as well as in 1954, and she is also present holder of the Canadian Women's Close championship, also to be held this year at Colwood.

Except on the two years of Marlene's conquest the open has been held since 1947 by U.S. golfers.

This year British Columbia has a sturdy hope in Mrs. Shirley Naysmith, winner of the provincial title.

The Royal Colwood match committee has decided to make no alterations for the series of big ladies' events. The usual back tees—but not the eight special "Tiger" tees—will be in use and the ladies' par will be 77.

Leading entrant to date is Miss Mary Anne Downey, scratch handicapper from Battlement.

THE TERRORS HAVE DEPARTED. Not so many years ago the new course at St. Andrews was regarded as one of the most fearsome tests of golf. The eight-under-par 63 shot by Frank Jowle this week in the first qualifying round of the British Open championship shows that this is no longer the case.

The terror of the new course was the heavy crop of jagged trees which separated it from the old course. Now—most of the bushes have been uprooted so that a passageway may be found for the thousands of fans who attend the big events at St. Andrews.

It is no disparagement to Jowle, who has been one of England's better showmen for many years, to say that the new course is several strokes easier than it used to be, and that he achieved it on one of those rarities—a windless St. Andrews summer day.

Farmer Construction came within a whisker of having its win streak in the Lower Island Senior Amateur Baseball League snapped at 14 games last night when they shaded second-place Eagles, 11-10, at Royal Athletic park in a game that was called after eight innings.

Farmers trailed, 10-8, going into the bottom of the eighth inning, but a pair of singles and a double by Ron Karadimous knotted the count at 10-10. Karadimous reached third on an infield play and stole home with the winning tally.

Farmers won the 3600 Dominion Day tournament at Courtenay over the weekend, thrashing Campbell River 8-2 in the final.

Last night's score: Vancouver 12, New Westminster 11.

It's almost certain that the brace in the final frame when Timbermen will be at full Aspin's goals—his second and third of the night—tied the strength for this one.

In last night's action, Bob Marsh scored the only goal of the overtime period to give Vancouver a 12-11 triumph over Salmonbellies with a three-goal effort.

at Vancouver.

Victoria Shamrocks, who snapped a three-game losing streak Monday night with a resounding victory over Vancouver Pilgrims, run headlong into the Nanaimo Timbermen at Memorial Arena tonight. In what will be their most crucial test in the Inter-City Lacrosse League so far this season,

Appearing to regain the form that has carried them to three straight league championships on Monday, the Shamrocks are primed for tonight's battle against the surging Timbermen, who have won six straight games and have climbed from fourth place to within one point of the Irish.

"We're all set," said coach Red McMillan last night in releasing his starting line-up. "And we'll have to play the same kind of lacrosse tonight as we did Monday," he added.

The rugged Timbermen, always at their best on their home floor, haven't fared too well against the Rocks at Memorial Arena, losing in both appearances although making a battle of it in each game. However, the Timbermen have split two decisions—with Victoria at the up-Island centre and downed the Rocks, 8-5, in the last meeting.

Today's draw and yesterday's results follow:

NO CHANGES

MCMILLAN announced no changes from Monday's lineup. It will be Gordie Johnston in goal with Nip O'Hearn and Jack Thompson, and Bill Bamford and Bob Monaghan as the defense pairings. Pee Wee Bradshaw, Larry Booth and Al Gill will form the first line; Whitey Severson, Jack Northup and Lew Landess will be on the second line, and Bob Dobbie, Harry Irwin and Al Davies will form the third unit.

Veteran Arne Ferguson, who came out of retirement and saw action Monday, will see plenty of action as utility player.

Nanaimo's line-up wasn't available last night although

Rival Managers Pick Remaining Players For All-Star Squads

Rival managers Leo Durocher, Robin Roberts of Philadelphia, of New York Giants and Al Giono of Milwaukee and Lopez of Cleveland Indians Tuesday night named the remainder of their players who will meet at St. Louis, Joe Nuxhall of Cincinnati and Luis Arroyo of St. Louis to his pitching staff.

Durocher, handling the National League all-stars, selected seven pitchers, five infielders, three outfielders and two catchers to fill out his squad. Lopez, the American League pilot, selected nine pitchers, one catcher, three outfielders and four infielders to round out his squad.

The starting eight players, excluding the pitchers, for both teams were named by a vote of the fans.

NATIONAL LEAGUE

Selected as National League starters were Ted Kluszewski, Cincinnati, first base; Red Schoendienst, St. Louis, second;

Durocher rounded out his squad by picking righthander Don Newcombe of Brooklyn,

MONDAY

Nottinghamshire 197 and 205. Surrey 340 for 3 declared. Surrey won by an innings and 28 runs.

With the win, Surrey became the first team to win all four County titles this year.

Surrey's victory was achieved despite the loss of their top batsman, Ian Botham, who had been ruled out of the series with a shoulder injury.

Botham, who had been a key player in the team's success, was replaced by Alan Knott, who scored 100 runs in his first match.

Around the IslandTug in Trouble Towed to Port For Second Time

CAMPBELL RIVER—The 100-foot tug Lemarr, towing a large laden scow from Vancouver to Ocean Falls, was saved by the Humphries Water and Rescue Service tug 111 when it blew a piston in the rip tide off Cape Mudge, Quadra Island.

The 111, skippered by Ted Wakefield, towed the tug and scow to Lund, where another tug took over and escorted the Lemarr back to Vancouver.

The same tug ran into the same difficulty last year and was towed to safety by the same salvage firm.

CAMPBELL RIVER—As a contribution to the community work of the Kinsmen club, governors of Lourdes hospital decided to write off all charges for a patient who had broken his leg while working on construction of the community hall.

The club is building the hall through voluntary work.

GANGES—A beautiful window, depicting the Apostles St. Paul, has been dedicated by Archdeacon G. H. Holmes in memory of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Walter, who were active members of St. Paul's church, built on Ganges hill about 1912 and burned down on Christmas Day, 1938.

Mr. Walter was the first church warden of St. Paul's, a position he filled until his death in 1933, and Mrs. Walter, who died in 1954, gave many years of service to the church as organist.

SHAWNIGAN LAKE—The congregation and Women's Auxiliary of All Saints church, Shawnigan Lake, said farewell to Rev. C. E. Lonsdale

School Renovation in Progress

DUNCAN—Repair and renovation of schools in Cowichan district is in full swing during the vacation. The school board, at a special meeting, awarded contracts for plumbing and linoleum for various schools.

J. W. Griffiths was awarded the contract for plumbing in Sahtlam and Westholme schools. The tender was $1,174.23, lowest of three.

PORT ALBERNI—John Squire, M.L.A., will address a meeting of Beaver Creek Ratepayers' Association at 8 p.m. Thursday.

He has been asked to outline the functions of the Public Utilities Commission, as the association continues its campaign for extension of B.C. Telephone Co. lines in the Beaver creek area.

CAMPBELL RIVER—LocalPioneer Farm Being Split Up

ALBERNI—One of this district's pioneer farms is being subdivided into homesites.

The development on the Prairie Farm will be known as Meadowways. Half the four and five-acre lots will have frontage on Somass river.

The subdivision will have access from Wilthers road, serving the property, and from Hills road, off Beaver creek road. A 66-foot road is being built from north to south of the 138-acre subdivision, with three lateral roads to give access to the river front.

The land was the home of the pioneer family of Robert H. Wood, who later became one of the district's leading lumbermen, and of his cousin, A. B. Stevens. The original house and barns were built by Mr. Wood and Mr. Stevens about 1895. The barns still stand.

PORT ALBERNI—A quiet holiday weekend was reported by both Port Alberni and Alberni RCMP detachments.

In Port Alberni, Magistrate T. M. Patterson imposed a fine of $25 and $250 costs on Leonard Horton of Sproat Lake, charged with driving while his licence was suspended. On the one charge of speeding that was heard, Douglas Atkinson of Port Alberni was fined $20 and $5 costs.

CAMPBELL RIVER—Mrs. J. J. Thompson has been elected president of a new branch of the Canadian Arthritis and Rheumatism Society formed at a meeting in the Campbell River home of Miss Lili Thulin.

Other officers are Alec Linton, vice-president; Mrs. Donald Roper, secretary; Guy Winter, treasurer, and W. J. Trevett, campaign chairman.

Tentative plans were made for a tag day in August and a campaign in October. Monthly meetings will be in the Legion hall.

'Mr. Ladysmith'

JAMES B. WEIR

Pioneer J. B. Weir Soon 91

LADYSMITH — James Barr Weir, 91 years old Thursday, might well be called "Mr. Ladysmith," because he has lived here continuously longer than any other man, and was engaged as carpenter on the new coaling wharf for James Dunsuir when Mr. Dunsuir named the new townsite Ladysmith.

Mr. Weir declares he will never let the day his small son Frank dashed home to say, "Papa, they call this place Ladysmith now."

JUST A POST

He had watched the erection of a post down by the railway track—there was no station, not even a house around—and the crossbar was "Ladysmith."

That was March 1, 1900. Land was just being cleared for the new townsite. Mr. Weir and his little family lived in a log cabin with a lean-to.

He came here January 18, 1899, a ship's carpenter who had served his apprenticeship at Renfrew, Scotland.

He became construction foreman of the wharf he helped build, and retired some 35 years ago.

ACTIVE IN CHURCH

He was a member of the First Presbyterian church board when the church was built in 1901. In 1944 the board presented him on his 80th birthday with a cane and umbrella in recognition of his long and faithful service. He still walks to church every Sunday morning, and takes an occasional stroll about the town.

Gardening was a full-time hobby during more active years when he entered his flowers in the local fall fair. Now he just admires them, but has definite advice to offer: "Keep down the weeds."

Mr. Weir was joined in Ladysmith by his late Mrs. Weir in August, 1899. He now resides with his son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Barod, Third avenue, just two doors from the old home where he spent half a century.

TAX BOOSTComputed

NANAIMO—Figures of the expected increase in taxes should the electors assent to two by-laws being placed before them Thursday, were supplied by the publicity department of the city council Tuesday.

More than 5,000 persons will vote on the $100,000 police station by-law and the $150,000 Newcastle island purchase plan.

Using 1955 as a basis for computing the mill rate necessary to raise the annual debt charge upon these by-laws, figures are as follows: (By-laws combined) for each $100 assessed value of land, 28 cents; for each $1,000 assessed value of improvements, 36 cents.

As an example, land assessed at $500 and improvements at $3,000 would mean a total tax increase of $3.08.

Big Aquatic Events NearSproat Lake Hit By Regatta Fever

SPROAT LAKE—One of B.C.'s major aquatic events will take place July 16 and 17 when the Sproat Lake Ratepayers' Association holds its annual regatta at Smith's Landing.

Regatta fever has already hit the Alberni valley. Back yards and basements are full of activity as local racers prepare for competition against visitors from other B.C. centres and from Washington.

The Junior Chamber of Commerce will take charge of a deluxe twin cockpit motor boat being offered as a membership prize by the regatta committee. Sproat Lake Racing and Motor Boat Club is organizing a program which will see some of the West Coast's fastest boats in action.

Local stores will use the regatta theme in window decoration. MacMillan and Bloedel Ltd., which has developed

Centenarian Dies in Sleep At Cape Mudge

CAMPBELL RIVER—Mrs. Marian Smith of the We-keum band of Campbell River, reputed to be 100 years of age, died peacefully in her sleep at Cape Mudge village, Quadra Island. She was buried Monday in Cape Mudge cemetery, with Rev. L. S. Straight of the United Church, Campbell River, Stephen Assu, Melvin Assu, Donald Assu, Ivan Dick, Robert Clifton Jr., and James Wilson officiating.

Mrs. Smith married into the Nimpkish band, residing at Alert Bay until widowed 40 years ago. She then returned to the We-keum band at Campbell River. She followed Indian customs which requires a woman to revert to her maiden name when returning to the band she was born into.

She lived at the Spit reservation for many years but latterly resided with her granddaughter, Mrs. Harry Assu, at Cape Mudge. She was pale and hearty and took part in social life of the village.

Pallbearers were great-grandsons

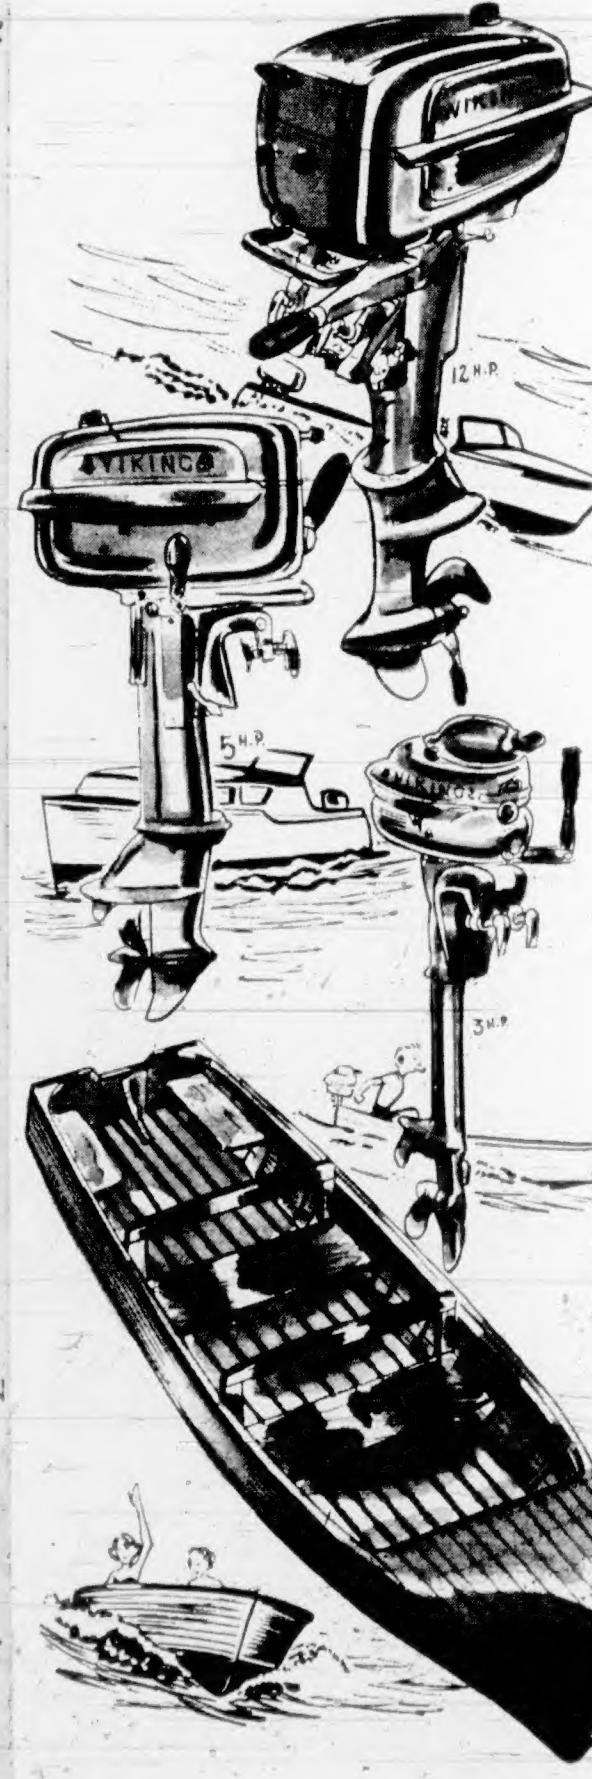

Stephen Assu, Melvin Assu, Donald Assu, Ivan Dick, Robert Clifton Jr., and James Wilson.

NANAIMO—Three Nanaimo residents, Mr. Cliff Brown and Mr. and Mrs. Morris Kilgour, were overcome by gas fumes Sunday while aboard the yacht Victor F.

Mrs. Brown was able to drag one to the rear of the boat and get the other two with their heads out of the window. All revived quickly.

The hand from HMCS Naden will give a concert on the lawn of the Legislative Buildings Thursday and Friday evenings.

There will be no sunset ceremonial with the programs.

Last night members of the 5th Harbor Defence Battery performed the sunset ceremonial on the Legislative Building lawn.

Selected leaders were called by Dr. G. C. Bennett for consultation of their areas' contributions to the campaign.

George Masters, administrator of Royal Jubilee Hospital, said yesterday staff had already been cut to the bone.

"We can't cut it any more," he said.

It is a very difficult situation for us. Hospital costs all over Canada have been going up at an alarming rate and no one knows the answer.

"If we have to give it some money and RCHHS says we must cut staff immediately."

A delegation from the B.C. Hospital Association asked the Cabinet June 28 to withdraw the order pegging RCHHS payments as far as wages are concerned at the 1954 level.

Dr. W. A. C. Bennett said later he had asked delegates to go back and confer with their medical staffs to increase efficiency and hold down costs. He said he told the association the department was limited to the amount of assistance voted by the legislature.

Irate Gibson Hotly Denies CCF's 'Cheapskate' Charge

VANCOUVER, C.P.—A heated show-down took place by telephone between the socialist Labour leader and the provincial minister of agriculture, here, yesterday. Dr. J. E. Gibson, leader of the B.C. branch of the CCF, charged that no less than 100,000 bushels of the grain crop of the province had been appropriated by the B.C. government for the feeding of cattle. Dr. Gibson said yesterday that the amount of grain taken by the government was "a total waste."

To be known as Paul's Plaza Restaurant, it will be situated on Pauline, between Carrall and the Victoria waterfront. It will feature a wide variety of food, including seafood, and the cost of meals will range from 50 cents to $1.50. It is expected to open in December.

Mr. Gibson points out that in September last year he advised the provincial government to stop the use of grain for cattle feeding.

The building will be of one store and two stories, measuring 40x60 feet, with a capacity of 150 persons. The cost of the building is estimated to be $10,000.

A central kitchen to supply all the cooking equipment of food for the restaurant is to be situated at the rear of the new building.

Mr. Gibson expects that this new establishment will stand in contrast to the standard of food in the restaurants which are maintained at a

Teachers Flock Back to School

Victoria's largest summer selection of courses offered by the Department of Education will be what they can get at other schools opened offically this morning at 11 a.m. by Dr. H. L. Campbell, B.C.'s deputy minister of education.

Some 2,200 teachers register yesterday and Monday for the 100 courses.

The school will be conducted this year at Victoria College and Ladysmith Junior High School. About most of the teachers are from B.C., several hundred have come from other provinces.

Dr. Campbell said the number of courses offered and the extension of B.C.'s education system and increase in the number of teachers continue to favour the school system. Between enrollment has doubled in the last two years.

Many courses come from other provinces because they go to the B.C. program and others because of the high cost of living in the West.

SICKNESS HITS ANN MERAW AFTER SHORT ONE-HOUR TRY

"So Long" Ann Shouts

"So long gang," Vancouver housewife Ann Meraw shouted to about 200 well-wishers and friends who saw her take off at 1:10 last night into the same wind-swept, choppy waters that have stopped all other strait challengers.

She waded into the breakers from the beach at the foot of Moss street, dipped her head in the 46 degree water and set out with a strong crawl towards Port Angeles.

Her crew in the coach boat were wet before Ann. The boat was half-swamped as it pulled into shore to pick up her coach, Torontonian Pat Roach, Nurse Isabel Urquhart, and oarsmen Ted Roach.

Ted Roach will have had his fill of rowing if Ann makes Port Angeles. He rowed 10 miles yesterday training with HMCS Discovery sculling team in Vancouver.

BEFORE TAKEOFF

Before her takeoff Ann huddled in a blanket on the beach and talked to Mrs. Pat Roach and joked with close friends. She cuddled an elephant mascot.

Nurse Urquhart rubbed some anti-chafing ointment on her shoulders and legs. Ann was not greased, but had a thin coating of white substance on her body. She wore a white bathing cap and goggles for her takeoff.

"What happens if I get ill out there?" she asked Pat Roach.

PERSISTENCE

"Just try to persevere for a while, Ann," he answered.

For two hours before the takeoff of Ann sucked on sugar cubes.

For the benefit of photographers she entered the water on the right of her coach boat, but told her crew she wanted the boat on her left as soon as she started swimming.

The crowd on shore gave her a cheer and a clap as she entered the water and waved good-bye. Cars were lined along the waterfront and Clover Point.

The wind was steady from the southwest, the tide urging her towards Trial Island, to the southeast.

Faces Crucial Decision

Grandmother Boosts Prize Up to $32,000

NEW YORK (AP) — A 54-year-old Bible-reading grandmother has won $32,000 on a television give-away program, "The $64,000 Question." Next week, Mrs. Catherine Kreitzer of Camp Hill, Pennsylvania, can try for $64,000. If she misses, she'll get an automobile—but no money.

If she decides not to try again, Mrs. Kreitzer gets the $32,000 she won last night by answering a three-part question about the Bible.

She told Peter and Matthew earned their livings—gave the name of the father of James the Less—and named eight disciples of Jesus, after being given the names of the other four.

She named seven of the disciples quickly—they hesitated. She went through the names again and came up with the eighth.

She was given the names of Peter, Matthew, James the Greater, and James the Less, then was asked to name the other eight disciples. She named Andrew, Philip, Bartholomew, Thaddeus, Thomas, Simon and Judas Iscariot—but left out John.

As tension mounted in the audience, Mrs. Kreitzer's poise and composure seemed about to crack. Then she went down the list of the 12 disciples and came up with the missing name.

She correctly said that Peter earned his living as a fisherman and that Matthew was a tax collector.

As for the name of the father of James the Less, she knew him as James, the son of Alpheus, so she had no trouble naming the father.

Ship Strike Continues

Airlift Takes Meat To Isolated Loggers

A Canadian Pacific Airlines Canoam amphibian ferried 10 tons of meat to 350 loggers on Moresby Island in the Queen Charlottes yesterday as the strike of 350 seamen against Union Steamship Co. ended its third day.

Meanwhile, an official of the striking Seafarers' International Union (AFL) declined comment on growing rumors that the strike would be extended later this week to CPR and CNR vessels, including those serving Vancouver Island.

TOWNS CUT OFF

CPA ferried meat to the loggers to stave off the threat of rationing. CPA Pacific Western Airlines, Tidewater Shipping Co., Ltd., Packers Steamship Co., and Northern Navigation Ltd. made plans to speed normal supplies to about 100 isolated communities along the coast.

The seamen struck seven handle general freight.

Fountain of Youth

After a hesitant start, the weatherman warmed Victoria again yesterday and Candy Lorraine Simpson, 5, cooled off in the fountain pool which graces the Legislative Building's lawns. The nymph's home is 702 Blanshard.

Revolt at Walla Walla

HardConvicts Hold Section of Prison

WALLA WALLA, Wash.—No attempt was made to leave the prison grounds and any possibility of escape soon was cut off as scores of guards and state policemen carrying machine guns and rifles ringed the walls.

Dr. Thomas Harris, newly-appointed director of institutions, was flown from the state capital at Olympia.

Two of the hostages were quickly released but the other seven still were held hours later as three ringleaders walked boldly to a meeting with this state's director of institutions.

Cells in two wings were opened by 33 men who started the revolt, releasing 396 other prisoners. The scene was relatively quiet in the two wings.

The quick coup was staged at 9:45 a.m. PST as the inmates, armed with knives seized in the prison kitchen, walked through the administration section of the U-shaped structure, seizing associate warden Ted Bezzelides and eight others.

One of the two hostages released was badly beaten and left unconscious by the revolting gang.

Feelings of insecurity by men

Quaint Customs

VIENNA (Reuters)—A police dog that jumped out of a third-story window here set people to speculating Tuesday on whether this was a rare case of canine suicide.

Police said the dog made his death leap after apparently realizing he had endangered the life of his six-year-old charge Helga Jellinek.

The girl was asleep when the chained dog loosened the rubber pipe of the gas oven. Her parents were not at home but neighbors smelled the escaping gas, forced their way into the apartment and saved the child.

When the dog was unfastened, he headed straight for an open window and plunged to his death when she refused him.

Her former husband, Frank E. McCauley, former air force ace, was questioned and eliminated as a possible suspect, Brown said.

The maid, Laura Dromna, found the body. She told police she made the discovery after Mrs. McCauley's five-year-old son Kirk came to her and said, "Mummy's still asleep."

Her three small sons, 2, 5 and 7, slept through the slaying.

Howe Misled Parliament, Drew Says

OTTAWA (CP)—Opposition Leader Drew Tuesday night accused Trade Minister Howe of misleading the Commons on the $19,000,000 wheat deal with Red Poland, after the minister said negotiations had been completed.

Mr. Drew, who earlier in the Tuesday night that day made an unsuccessful attempt to say the least, that there is little ground for any member of the deal which he believed was still pending, said in an interview he will keep pressing for a full parliamentary airing of the transaction—the biggest with the Reds in post-war years.

He said he firmly believes Mr. Howe early in the day deliberately led the House to believe that the deal was not yet concluded and would not be completed until his estimates were dealt with in the chamber.

The deal involves shipment of some 9,000,000 bushels of Canadian wheat for about $19,000,000, with Poland putting up 15 per cent cash. The remainder is being floated through a bank loan guaranteed by the Canadian government.

OUT OF ORDER

When Mr. Drew attempted to open the emergency debate, Speaker René Beaudoin ruled him out of order, saying his understanding was that the deal was still pending and that it could still fall through.

Mr. Howe interjected: "Perhaps I could relieve the situation by saying that the situation will be unchanged when my estimates of the department of trade and commerce are discussed."

Mr. Drew said in his interview that if gifts or quasi-gifts were to be made to foreign countries they should be made to friendly ones, and not to Communist states like Poland.

In making his ruling that there was no urgency for such a debate in the House, that he was "astonished" by the Winnipeg report.

Tuesday morning he made an unsuccessful move to launch an emergency debate on the deal in an attempt to block the sale which involves backing of a huge bank loan by the Canadian government. Commons Speaker René Beaudoin ruled him out of order.

RULING UPHELD

Mr. Drew appealed the ruling but the Commons sustained the Speaker by a vote of 117 to 31. Liberal, CCF and Social Credit members and two independents, Fernand Girard, Lapointe, and Ross Thatcher, Moose Jaw-Lake Centre, supported the Speaker's ruling.

Mr. Beaudoin said in view of that the matter could more properly be discussed when departmental estimates were debated. At that point in the morning procedural tangle which occupied 45 minutes, Mr. Howe interjected:

"Perhaps I could relieve the situation by saying that the situation will be unchanged when my estimates of the department of trade and commerce are discussed."

In his Winnipeg announcement, Charles Swartz, president of Northern Sales Ltd., grain dealers, said negotiations had been completed for the sale of 9,000,000 bushels of Canadian milling-grade wheat to Poland.

At 6:30 p.m. he made his decision final.

"I won't waste myself," he said. "I'll go in the morning, all being well."

Thomas To Try Today

BY PETER BRUTON

PORTE ANGELES — Bert Thomas will try to swim from Ediz hook to Victoria at 6 a.m. today—if the weather goes well.

The weather beat Bert again last night.

He was due to make his start off Ediz hook at 6 p.m. But there were whitecaps inside the hook, right in Port Angeles harbor, and a 20-mile-an-hour wind whipping the coast.

"It's no use," Thomas said, disconsolately. "I missed my chance this morning. The weather was perfect."

At 6:30 p.m. he made his decision final.

"I won't waste myself," he said. "I'll go in the morning, all being well."

Liberal Win Two More

EDMONTON (CP)—Two Liberals were declared elected Tuesday night to the Alberta legislature. The Liberal wins, both gains from Social Credit, boosted the party's representation in the 61-seat House to 13.

Richard E. Hall won in Athabasca over Antonio Aloisio and John Mills was elected in Lac Ste. Anne over A. M. Montemurro. Mr. Aloisio and Mr. Montemurro, both Social Crediters, were members of the last legislature.

Geoffrey Gorer, anthropologist, has published a book exploring British character, based on 11,000 answers to questionnaires. He says the husbands found these faults with their spouses.

Ann Starts Swim Stroking Strongly

Ann Meraw, a slim, dark woman from Vancouver, slipped into the water off Clover Point at 1:10 a.m. today in her first attempt to beat old Juan de Fuca. At press time she was half a mile off shore.

She is the fourth woman to make the attempt.

Her white cap bobbed away into the darkness while a crowd of several hundred watched from the rocks.

FIFTY-FIFTY

Her coach, Toronto's noted swim adviser Pat Reach, gives Mrs. Meraw "a fifty-fifty chance" to make the swim which has beaten Bert Thomas four times and every other challenger in history.

She started swimming rapidly, with a six-beat orthodox crawl.

Gus Norman, her navigator, was with her coach and two boatmen in the dinghy which kept close to the swimmer.

Ann swam very strongly the first few minutes on a slack tide to get away from kelp and reach the area of favorable tides. Her stroking was polished and clean.

Her coach said she was wearing a specially insulated suit, but was using no grease.

Her course appeared at the start to be straight for Port Angeles, but no one but her immediate handlers knew exactly her heading.

Water temperature at take-off was 66 degrees and the wind southwest, no more than 10 knots.

Young Men Running Away

Britons Fleeing Wives Crowd Tramps from Roads

BY EDDY GILMORE

LONDON (AP)—Young Englishmen running away from their wives have cost the old-fashioned tramp off Britain's highways.

"The tramp, the old knight of the road," said Sir Geoffrey Hutchinson, chairman of the national assistance board, "is dying out. His place in Britain's reception centres is being taken by younger men and these seem to be running away from something."

Sir Geoffrey said several reasons lie behind this flight from home, based on case workers' observations. They are:

Feelings of insecurity by men who have been in prison.

Efforts by others to get away from the police or military authorities.

More often than any other excuse given to officers at hostels operated for the homeless is this one:

"It's my wife. I couldn't stick her. That's why I'm here."

Figures show the tramp has been liquidated. In 1931 more than 17,000 persons nightly used the public reception centres. In 1939 the figure was 7,000. Last year the total had dwindled to 2,300—but many of the men were young.

Maj. Harold Gill, officer in charge of one of London's biggest Salvation Army centres, said:

"In the last few weeks we have had very nearly twice the number of young men asking for free bed and board."

Geoffrey Gorer, anthropologist, has published a book exploring British character, based on 11,000 answers to questionnaires. He says the husbands found these faults with their spouses:

"Nagging, scolding, fault-finding, lack of intelligence, gossiping, conceit and obstinacy of opinions."

Commons Deliberately Misled By C. D. Howe, Drew Charges

'Situation Will Be Unchanged' Meant 'Negotiations Over'

OTTAWA (CP)—Opposition Leader Drew Tuesday night accused Trade Minister Howe of misleading the Commons on the $19,000,000 wheat deal with Red Poland, after the minister said negotiations have been completed.

Mr. Drew, who earlier in the Tuesday night that those words meant, "to say the least, that there is little ground for any member of the Commons relying on his statements."

Earlier, when the opposition leader read in the Commons a Canadian Press bulletin from Winnipeg carrying the announcement of Northern Sales Ltd., agents in the deal, that negotiations had been completed, he said:

"I believe that members who were called on to rely on the statement by Mr. Howe given this morning are entitled to an explanation of what has happened."

HOWE'S REPLY

Mr. Howe replied:

"The only comment that was made this morning was that the situation would be unchanged when the estimates were up for consideration. The negotiations were completed prior to today and the fact that the announcement was made today . . . does not change the situation."

Donald Fleming (PC—Toronto Eglington): "This House was misled this morning."

Hon. Earl Rowe (PC—Dufferin-Simcoe): "It is a good job we have a press to tell Parliament what goes on."

At this point the House was called to order to continue consideration of private bills and the discussion ended there.

Mr. Drew said in his interview

"Astonished"

Mr. Drew said earlier, outside the House, that he was "astonished" by the Winnipeg report.

Tuesday morning he made an unsuccessful move to launch an emergency debate on the deal in the administration section of the U-shaped structure, seizing associate warden Ted Bezzel and eight others.

One of the two hostages released was badly beaten and left unconscious by the revolting gang.

No attempt was made to leave the prison grounds and any possibility of escape soon was cut off as scores of guards and state policemen carrying machine guns and rifles ringed the walls.

Dr. Thomas Harris, newly-appointed director of institutions, was flown from the state capital at Olympia.

RULING UPHELD

Mr. Drew appealed the ruling the Commons sustained the Speaker by a vote of 117 to 34.

Liberal, CCF and Social Credit members and two independents, Fernand Girard, Lapointe, and Ross Thatcher, Moose Jaw-Lake Centre, supported the Speaker's ruling.

The opposition leader maintained that if gifts or quasi-gifts were to be made to foreign countries they should be made to friendly ones, and not to Communist states like Poland.

In his Winnipeg announcement, Charles Swartz, president of Northern Sales Ltd., grain dealers, said negotiations had been completed for the sale of 9,000,000 bushels of Canadian milling-grade wheat to Poland.

In making his ruling that there was no urgency for such a debate

Prime Minister St. Laurent's statement in the House last Friday that he understood the negotiations

"have not been formally concluded

but they are progressing in a manner which leads us to believe they will be concluded."

Mr. Bezzel said, in view of that, the matter could more prop-erly be discussed when trade department estimates were debated.

At that point in the morning pro-cessural tangle, which occupied 45 minutes, Mr. Howe interjected:

"Perhaps I could relieve the situation by saying that the situation will be unchanged when my estimates of the department of trade and commerce are discussed."

completed for the sale of 9,000,000 bushels of Canadian milling-grade wheat to Poland.
